Strength and Power and Speed and Stability

IN THIS BIG, BEAUTIFUL CAR, and at a price that is well within the reach of the prudent buyer, you obtain all those essentials—and to a degree you have learned to expect only in cars made and guaranteed by the Reo Folk.

STRENGTH WITHOUT SUBSTANCE is unattainable—impossible. Power without strength in the chassis to hold that power is—useless as well as mischievous. Speed in a car that lacks strength inevitably spells high maintenance cost.

AND STABILITY, LONGEVITY, can only be obtained by a nice relation of power in the motor and strength in the chassis.

THE REO FOLK have been an exception to the rule in that they have never made of Extreme Lightness a fetish. Have never followed it to the extreme—the danger point.

REO CARS ARE LIGHT, BUT not light to the point of flimsiness. (Note that important distinction.)

IN THEIR LONG EXPERIENCE they have found extreme lightness to be incompatible with longevity—lasting qualities and low maintenance cost.

OF COURSE there's always a temptation to achieve a seeming efficiency by the simple expedient of lessening the weight of the chassis and body the motor must pull. But the Reo Folk have never succumbed to the lure.

WE MAINTAIN that no car of equal power to this Reo Six but made lighter, can possibly endure for as many years and cost as little from year to year to operate and to maintain.

"50% OVERSIZE IN ALL VITAL PARTS"—the Reo Factor of Safety—necessarily calls for a few ounces more in those parts and a few (and only a few) pounds more in the total weight of the car. But—

THE DIFFERENCE IN STABILITY, in dependability, in durability, and above all in cost of upkeep and repairs, is out of all proportion to the slight difference in weight between Reo cars and others.

THOSE BUYERS WHO ARE attracted by spectacular performances over brief periods do not select Reos. Those who desire dependability, and consider cost of upkeep, constitute the great and ever increasing Reo clientele.

REO STANDARDS HAVE PROVEN to be best for the buyer. And the more prudent class of buyers have come to appreciate that fact thoroughly—as is evidenced by the tremendous demand for Reos.

ALL WINTER the factory has been unable to get even one car ahead of the day-to-day demand. So if you'd have a Reo and have it when you'd want it, your order must be placed well in advance of that date. Today won't be a minute too soon.

Gift for Retiring President.
In recognition of her splendid services as president of the Woman's Relief committee, Mrs. Lillian Bailey was presented a beautiful gold neck chain by the organization.

This may sound like an attempt to write something funny, but the practice of sewing children into their underwear for the winter is indulged in to some degree in this town.

Rev. E. A. Blake of Brooklyn is to deliver his illustrated lecture on Egypt before the members of the Brotherhood of the Methodist church at next week's meeting.

Ice Not Safe.
Persons who know say that wise mothers will warn their children to keep off apparently safe ice these days. The ice on rivers and lakes hereabouts now is in dangerous condition.

Danielson had a double drowning accident about this time two years ago, two little girls losing their lives.

On account of the fact that their own siding is blocked by construction work, motorbuses are engaged in hauling inward and outward shipments of the Connecticut Mills company from the freight station and local yards.

Members of the town school committee are very insistent in their position that children of the Danielson graded school, now closed, shall not be allowed to visit at other schools in the town and teachers are instructed to that effect.

What to Do With Punched Receipts.
William S. Brown, philosopher and genius, has another brand new idea. He thinks the new cash receipts issued by trolley conductors about the size of a handkerchief instead of paper, so that they could be run through a pecker after having been punched and then prepared for weaving into material for coat covers. The idea isn't patented. It is available as a lesson in thrift.

There are indications of an increase of membership for the Putnam County club during the season about to open. A number of Danielson men are anxious to take up the game of golf and will swell the number in the Danielson contingent now identified with the club, which is located near White's crossing on the trolley line.

FUNERAL.
Walter E. Brundage.

Wednesday's Danbury News said: Delegations from the class of 1918, Connecticut Agricultural college, at Storrs, together with representatives of the class of 1914, Danbury High school, and a large number of relatives and friends, having come to attend the funeral of Walter F. Brundage, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Brundage, of King street district, who died suddenly in his room at Storrs college last Saturday night.

The service was held in the King street district church, Tuesday, at 10 o'clock.

Rev. A. H. Fielder, pastor of the church, offered prayer, and read a portion of the Scriptures. Prof. Charles L. Beach, a member of the faculty of Storrs college, offered a touching eulogy of the young man and read in affecting manner Edwin Arnold's beautiful poem, "After Death in Arabia."

Sanford B. Morse, a member of Mr. Brundage's class at Storrs, sang Tennyson's poem, "Crossing the Bar." Mr. H. Barnett, also a member of the young man's class in college, was present at the service, and with Mr. Morse and four members of the deceased's class in the King street church Sunday school acted as pall bearers.

It was planned for the entire membership of the class at the agricultural college to attend the services, but owing to unsatisfactory train arrangements the plan was not carried out, and the class was represented by a delegation of two of its members.

Four members of the King street church Sunday school who were pall bearers were Clayton Knapp, Warren Sprague, Douglas Evans and Harrison Bailey.

The floral tributes were numerous and very beautiful. Among them was a large wreath from the sophomore class at Storrs college and a pillow from relatives.

Burial was in the King street church cemetery.

The Much-Abused "Esq."
Reverting to the question of the legal use of "Esquire," a correspondent suggests that those who are so entitled include men having the LL. B. of Oxford and Cambridge, with perhaps the LL. B's of Scottish universities, but not those of Manchester, Leeds, Birmingham, etc. This is by no means the case (and, incidentally, there is no LL. B. of Oxford, though the D. C. L. is perhaps equivalent). No academic degree entitles the bearer to the strictly legal use of "Esquire"—except that of Royal Academicians. The much abused "Esq." is restricted, in proper use, to certain servants of the Crown, civil and military; to the younger sons of peers and baronets, the elder sons of knights, and the elder grandson of each, in perpetuity, and to D. A.'s and that is all.—London Chronicle.

Washed Into the Ocean.
An average of 95 tons of soil and loose rock is washed into the ocean every year from every square mile of the United States, according to the Geological Survey. This estimate does not include the Great Basin. The immensity of this contribution may be better comprehended when it is realized that the surface of the United States covers 3,688,599 square miles.
